STATISTICAL ANALYSIS OF INTELLIGENCE MATERIAL RECEIVED BY OCD IN 1950

An increase of 58%, from about 166,000 in 1949 to 262,000 in 1950, was recorded in the total number of REPORTS and DOCUMENTS received by OCD for processing, dissemination, and addition to indexed reference files.

Over 90% of the 96,000 increase came from State, Air and CIA, while all other sources showed small increases. Nearly 25,000 of the total received from Air was in the form of "Wringer" reports which are received on microfilm reels and are reproduced by CIA in single copy. These "Wringer" reports were first received by OCD in December 1949.

Total CABLES and AIRGRAMS received for dissemination and reference files showed a small decrease, from over 119,000 in 1949 to less than 117,000 in 1950. The decrease of 17,000 in the number received from State was offset by a corresponding increase in the ECA total, probably due to expanded ECA operations and to a transfer of certain economic reporting from State to ECA missions. State also curtailed the airgram form of communication during the year, and these messages were largely replaced by airmail reports.

The 6,000 decrease in Army cables is attributed to a reduction in Military Attache establishments, to institution of the Joint Weeka cable, to Army being replaced by State in the administration of Germany, and to the use of the telecon instead of cables in connection with the war in Korea. This decrease was partly offset by small increases in Navy and Air cables.

The total of all intelligence material (REPORTS, DOCUMENTS, CABLES & AIRGRAMS) received in 1950 exceeded 378,000 items, an increase of 33% over the 1949 total of 285,000, and nearly 50% more than the 253,000 items received in 1948. Reports and documents accounted for 69% of the 1950 total, while cables and airgrams were 31% of the total.

About 49% of the total items received in 1950 came from State, while the next largest source was CIA with 13%, followed by Army and Air with 12% each, ECA with 8%, Navy with 4%, and other agencies with 2%. Increases in total items were recorded for all sources except Army. Air and State accounted for more than half of the 93,000 total increase over 1949.

EXPLANATORY NOTES to tabulation on next page of intelligence material received in the four year period 1947-1950:

AIR reports in 1950 included 24,694 "Wringer" reports that were received on microfilm reels and reproduced by CIA in single copy.

AIR cables were included in the Army totals through March 1949.

ECA totals for reports and documents are partly estimated as they were included in the count for "Other Agencies" for about two years from the middle of 1948, when they were first received. One-half of the "Other Agencies" count for that period was allocated to ECA in this table.
